Trump announces grisly death of Islamic State leader Baghdadi during U.S. raid

Suicide occurred when Baghdadi reached dead end of a tunnel.

U.S. President Donald Trump on Sunday announced that Islamic State leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi killed himself during a daring overnight raid by elite U.S. special operations forces in Syria, in a major victory as he fights a Democratic-led impeachment inquiry.

Baghdadi died alongside three of his children by detonating an explosives-laden vest when he fled U.S. forces into a dead-end tunnel during the attack, which took place in the Idlib region in northwest Syria, the Republican president said in a televised address to the nation from the White House.

Under Iraqi-born Baghdadi's rule, Islamic State – which at one point controlled swathes of Syria and Iraq – was responsible for gruesome attacks against religious minorities and attacks on five continents in the name of a form of ultra-fanatical Islam.

"Last night the United States brought the world's No.1 terrorist leader to justice," Trump said in extended remarks describing the raid.

U.S. Defense Secretary Mark Esper said the goal of the operation had been to capture Baghdadi if possible but kill him if necessary.

Esper said two U.S. forces suffered minor injuries during the operation but have already returned to duty. Trump said a military dog was wounded.

A U.S. official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the operation was staged from an airbase in western Iraq.

The death of Baghdadi was an important win for Trump weeks after his sudden decision to withdraw U.S. troops from Syria sparked a wave of harsh criticism, including from fellow Republicans, that the move would lead to a resurgence of Islamic State, which is also known as ISIS.

"The thug who tried so hard to intimidate others spent his last moments in utter fear, panic and dread, terrified of the American forces coming down on him," Trump said.

"He reached the end of the tunnel as our dogs chased him down. He ignited his vest, killing himself and his three children. His body was mutilated by the blasts. The tunnel had caved on him," he added.

Russia opened up its airspace for the raid and Kurdish allies gave some helpful information, according to Trump, who watched the operation unfold with Vice President Mike Pence and others.

Trump said the raid would not change his decision to withdraw troops from Syria. U.S. forces included the elite Delta Force, a U.S. official told Reuters.

Trump indicated that killing Baghdadi was a greater achievement than the 2011 U.S. operation during the administration of Democratic President Barack Obama that killed al Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden, who planned the Sept. 11, 2001 attacks in the United States.

"Bin Laden was a big thing, but this (Baghdadi) is the biggest there is. This is the worst ever," Trump said.

The Baghdadi raid put the spotlight on Trump's uneasy relationship with the U.S. intelligence community. He praised the role of intelligence officials in laying the groundwork for the attack, saying that is the type of activity it should be focused on.

Trump has taken issue with the intelligence community on various issues, including its conclusion that Russian meddling in the 2016 election was aimed at helping him win.

2 Actress Felicity Huffman released from prison early

Actress Felicity Huffman, the first parent in the U.S. college admissions cheating scandal to go to prison, was released from a California facility on Friday, before the end of her 14-day sentence, a prison spokeswoman said. The "Desperate Housewives" star was scheduled to be let out on Sunday, but the spokeswoman cited a policy that allows for the early release of inmates whose release day is on a weekend. Huffman, 56, an Academy Award nominee, turned herself in to authorities at the Federal Correctional Institution in Dublin, California, on Oct. 15. U.S. District Judge Indira Talwani had sentenced her to serve two weeks behind bars after Huffman pleaded guilty to conspiracy related to her payment of $15,000 to have someone secretly correct answers on her daughter Sophia's SAT college entrance test.

3 Shooting at Texas college party leaves at least 2 dead

Texas police said they were seeking a gunman on Sunday who fired randomly at a Halloween homecoming party packed with hundreds of college students, leaving at least two dead and wounding about a dozen more, before fleeing amid the chaos that followed. Authorities said they believed the unidentified male suspect may have gone to the sprawling event facility where the off-campus party was held intending to shoot a particular person, and fired his handgun into the crowd afterwards. "We believe this is a separate incident," Hunt County Sheriff Randy Meeks told a news conference on Sunday morning. "There might have been someone there who was targeted." The shooting happened around midnight on Saturday in Greenville, about 50 miles (80 kms) northeast of Dallas. REUTERS

4 EU hopes to endorse Brexit delay to Jan. 31

The 27 European Union countries that will remain after Brexit hope to agree on Monday to delay Britain's divorce until Jan.31 with an earlier departure possible should the factious UK parliament ratify their separation deal, sources said. British Prime Minister Boris Johnson last week reluctantly requested the three-month delay until the end of January, 2020, after the parliament's lower House of Commons refused to swiftly approve a new Brexit deal he had agreed with the bloc. Any postponement to Brexit can only be granted unanimously by the 27 and French objections have so far prevented a decision as Johnson spars with lawmakers over calling an early election. Diplomatic sources told Reuters the bloc's 27 EU ambassadors would meet at 09:00 GMT on Monday in Brussels to agree on the three-month delay from the current Brexit date of Oct. 31.

Defying crackdown, thousands of Iraqis keep protesting

At least 69 protesters were killed Friday and Saturday.

Thousands of Iraqi protesters stood fast in Baghdad's central Tahrir Square on Sunday, defying a bloody crackdown that killed scores over the weekend and an overnight raid by security forces seeking to disperse them.

Young men had erected barricades on a bridge leading to the capital's fortified Green Zone against security forces who continued to lob tear gas canisters toward them. Medical and security sources said 42 people had been injured.

"We give you our life and blood, Iraq," they chanted.

At least 69 Iraqis were killed on Friday and Saturday and hundreds wounded as demonstrators clashed with security forces and militia groups in a second wave of this month's protests against Prime Minister Adel Abdul Mahdi's government. About 226 people have been killed in October.

"I ask you Abdul Mahdi, it's been 16 years and you've done nothing. We're going from bad to worse," said Ma'azir Yas, who had wrapped herself in an Iraqi flag. "This protest is peaceful and the young men only ask for their rights: jobs and services."

Protesters were locked in a cycle on Sunday of advancing deeper into Tahrir Square and toward the Green Zone which houses government buildings, then retreating when the barrage of tear gas canisters became too much.

The smell of the gas was potent in all corners of the square as security forces fired it indiscriminately and directly at protesters, not into the air.

Many used creative ways to defend themselves including one protester who used a satellite dish as a shield. Tuk-tuks swarmed around, carrying injured young men to ambulances.

Despite the OPEC member country's vast oil wealth, many Iraqis live in poverty or have limited access to clean water, electricity, basic healthcare and education. Iraq is struggling to recover from years of conflict following the U.S.-led invasion in 2003 that overthrew dictator Saddam Hussein.

Iraqis blame a political elite they say is subservient to one or other of Iraq's two main allies, the United States and Iran. Many suspect these powers use Iraq as a proxy to pursue their struggle for regional influence, without concern for the needs of ordinary people.

Young men cleaning up the square said they feared a repeat of Saturday night's crackdown by security forces, when the demonstrations in Tahrir Square were broken up with tear gas and stun grenades. Some protesters have regrouped.

Iraq's elite Counter-Terrorism Service said on Sunday it had deployed in the streets of Baghdad to protect important state buildings "from undisciplined elements."

Security sources told Reuters Saturday that the Service's forces in Baghdad had been told to "use all necessary measures" to end the protests. REUTERS

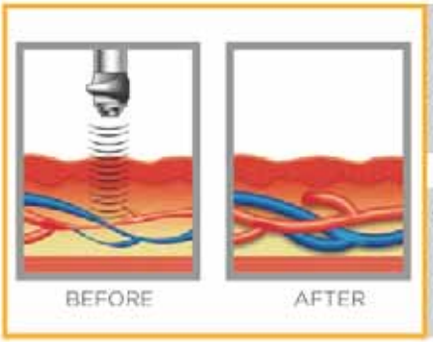
The non-invasive AWT treatment uses painless acoustic energy waves to repair soft tissue, improve blood circulation and stimulate the growth of new blood vessels throughout the penis. With the regeneration of blood flow and erectile tissue, the acoustic waves improve a man's sexual performance and help to produce an erection.

At Manhattan Medical Associates we take erectile dysfunction seriously. Tired of hearing "What do you expect at your age?" Erectile Dysfunction is treatable at any age.

How AWT Therapy Works:



Before:
As men age, the blood vessels that supply blood to the penis begin to break down or collapse. Natural or drug induced blood flow cannot enter into the penis, thus creating ED and frustrations with spontaneous sexual performance.

After:
Manhattan Medical Associates AWT Protocols open existing blood vessels and stimulate growth of new blood vessels. As a result, most patients experience much stronger, firmer and more sustainable erections.

AWT can treat almost any man - regardless of age or medical history. AWT is the existing solution to help treat ED within the New York area. In just a few, convenient sessions, you will be able to rejuvenate your sex life and be ready when the intimate moment arises.

Nguyen Dinh Gia, father of Vietnamese Joseph Nguyen Dinh Luong who is one of the suspected victims of the 39 people found dead in a refrigerated truck in Britain, is seen at his home in Ha Tinh province, Vietnam. REUTERS

Vietnam police take DNA from relatives of suspected truck victims

Many of the victims lacked identifying documents.

Police in Vietnam took hair and blood samples on Sunday to get DNA from relatives of people feared to be among the 39 who died in the back of a truck near London last week, their family members said.

The bodies were found on Wednesday in a truck container in Grays, about 32 km (20 miles) east of central London and British police are still trying to establish the identity of victims who in many cases lacked identity documents.

In a poor rice-growing area of northern Vietnam, communities have been plunged into mourning with their hope all but lost for relatives who had set out to seek better lives in Europe and were thought to have been aboard the truck.

The hashtag #RIP39 was trending in Vietnam on widely-used Facebook.

Distraught, Nguyen Dinh Gia said he feared there was very little chance he would ever again see his 20-year-old son, Nguyen Dinh Luong, who had been trying to get to Britain after first making it to France.

"Police from the Ministry of Public Security came to get DNA samples, our hair and blood," Nguyen Dinh Gia told Reuters at Can Loc in Ha Tinh province, where sympathizers gathered at the simple house amid lush rice fields to console the family.

"I advised him not to go because I told him that even though our family had always had nothing and our children were always in hardship, but we brought them up just fine," Nguyen said.

The father of Pham Thi Tra My, who sent a last text message to her family in the early hours of Wednesday Vietnam time, said police had also been to collect samples of blood and hair.

Some 70% of Vietnamese trafficking cases in the United Kingdom between 2009-2016 were for labor exploitation, including cannabis production and work in nail salons, according to a British government report last year.

Vietnam's government did not respond immediately for a request for comment. Vietnam's prime minister has called for an investigation into the case.

Police in Britain said on Saturday they had charged one man, 25-year-old Maurice Robinson of Craigavon in Northern Ireland, with 39 counts of manslaughter and other offences including conspiracy to traffic people.

On Sunday, police said three people arrested in connection with the investigation had been released on bail. All three had been questioned on suspicion of manslaughter and conspiracy to traffic people.

Initially, British police believed the victims were Chinese, but later sought help from the Vietnamese community. Chinese and Vietnamese officials were both working closely with British police, the countries' embassies said.

A Catholic priest in the remote town of Yen Thanh in Nghe An province said on Saturday that he believed most of the dead were likely from Vietnam.

British police have said very few of the victims were carrying official identification and that they hope to identify the dead through fingerprints, dental records and DNA, as well as photos from friends and relatives.

In the predominantly Catholic area of northern Vietnam from which the suspected victims came, churches held candle-lit prayers at the weekend.

How the victims came to be in the truck is not yet known.

The families of the suspected victims were in Nghe An and Ha Tinh, two of the poorest provinces in communist Vietnam.

Microsoft beats Amazon for Pentagon's $10 billion cloud computing contract

Technological agility for Pentagon is project's focus.

REUTERS

Microsoft Corp. has won the Pentagon's $10 billion cloud computing contract, the Defense Department said on Friday, beating out favorite Amazon.com Inc.

The contracting process had long been mired in conflict of interest allegations, even drawing the attention of President Donald Trump, who has publicly taken swipes at Amazon and its founder Jeff Bezos. Trump in August said his administration was reviewing Amazon's bid after complaints from other companies.

The Joint Enterprise Defense Infrastructure Cloud (JEDI) contract is part of a broader digital modernization of the Pentagon meant to make it more technologically agile. Specifically, a goal of JEDI is to give the military better access to data and the cloud from battlefields and other remote locations.

Oracle Corp had expressed concerns about the award process for the contract, including the role of a former Amazon employee who worked on the project at the Defense Department but recused himself, then later left the Defense Department and returned to Amazon Web Services.

In a statement, an Amazon Web Services (AWS) spokesman said the company was "surprised about this conclusion."

The company said that a "detailed assessment purely on the comparative offerings" would "clearly lead to a different conclusion," according to the statement.

AWS is considering options for protesting the award, a person familiar with the matter told Reuters.

Although the Pentagon boasts the world's most potent fighting force, its information technology remains woefully inadequate, according to many officials.

Officials have complained of having outdated computer systems and being unable to access files or share information as quickly as they might be able to in the private sector.

"If I am a warfighter, I want as much data as you could possibly give me," Lieutenant General Jack Shanahan, the director of the Joint Artificial Intelligence Center, told reporters in August describing the importance of the contract.

Some companies were concerned that a single award would give the winner an unfair advantage in follow-on work. The Pentagon has said it planned to award future cloud deals to multiple contractors.

Microsoft shares were up 3% to $144.98 in after-hours trading after the news. Amazon shares were down 0.92% to $1,745.12.

This week, U.S. Defense Secretary Mark Esper removed himself from reviewing the deal due to his adult son's employment with one of the original contract applicants, IBM Corp. IBM had previously bid for the contract but had already been eliminated from the competition.

Microsoft said it was working on a comment. IBM and Oracle did not immediately return requests for comment.

In a book slated for publication Oct. 29, retired Navy commander Guy Snodgrass, who served as a speech writer to former Defense Secretary Jim Mattis, said Trump called Mattis and directed him to "screw Amazon" by preventing it from bidding on the JEDI contract, according to an excerpt of the book seen by Reuters ahead of its release.

"We're not going to do that," Mattis later told other Pentagon officials, according to the excerpt. "This will be done by the book, both legally and ethically." REUTERS

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

Hong Kong protesters hurl petrol bombs after police fire tear gas to clear rally

Events took place on the 21st consecutive weekend of protests.

Hong Kong anti-government protesters set fire to shops and hurled petrol bombs on Sunday, police said, after riot police fired tear gas, water cannon and rubber bullets to disperse thousands in the Tsim Sha Tsui harbor-front hotel district.

The protesters, many in all-black clothing and face-masks now banned under a resurrected British colonial-era law, had gathered to denounce perceived police brutality during more than four months of often-violent unrest in the Chinese-ruled city.

It was the 21st straight weekend of protests, marked by a notable rise in the jeering and verbal abuse of police but not in the scale of violence. Police said one man was beaten up by "masked rioters."

"The police warn all rioters to stop all illegal acts immediately," they said in a statement.

But cat-and-mouse chases continued into the night, with protesters running away from water cannon and tear gas, only to re-appear seconds or minutes later.

There was a standoff as dusk fell, with protesters, bemused tourists and passers-by gathered on the pavements of the shopping and hotel artery of Nathan Road, which police had earlier cleared in slow-moving cordons.

Riot police stood by outside the Chungking Mansions high-rise warren of South Asian restaurants and backpacker hostels, shields and batons at the ready. Protesters shouted obscenities in colorful Cantonese at "black police," referring to their perceived over-use of force.

"Fight for Hong Kong!" protesters shouted, "five demands, not one less," a reference to demands for universal suffrage and an independent inquiry into police actions, among other things.

Police later moved away, leaving protesters, pedestrians and tourists alike to take over the street under the neon lights. Then one water cannon moved in, firing high into the air and down side-streets.

Police said protesters later hurled petrol bombs at a police station in Sham Shui Po, northwest of Tsim Sha Tsui, and set fire to shops in Jordan, north along Nathan Road from the harbor.

Reuters witnesses saw two MTR entrances on fire in Mong Kok.

The number of protesters had grown by the minute earlier in the afternoon, streaming down Nathan Road to the water's edge, in front of the dramatic backdrop of Hong Kong island, but many fled after the tear gas and pepper spray were fired.

Ambulances took one man away on a stretcher. The need for treatment was not immediately clear.

Police detained some protesters as they gathered in a rally that had not received official permission. The crowds at the waterfront had largely dispersed after a couple of hours and headed north up Nathan Road, where many luxury brand shops closed their shutters, toward Jordan and Mong Kok.

The rallying cry of the protesters was also for the protection of "Muslims, journalists and the people."

Billy, 26, said "Hong Kong people, regardless of our religion ... we come here to say no to our totalitarian government." REUTERS

Weinstein seen at Downtime Bar in the East Village on Oct. 23, 2019. VIA ZOE STUCKLESS / TWITTER

'Nobody's going to say anything!?' Harvey Weinstein confronted at East Village bar

Multiple people confronted the disgraced film mogul and accused sexual predator, who was spotted out sipping cocktails with friends.

MORGAN ROUSSEAU
morgan@metro.us

Disgraced film producer Harvey Weinstein has been accused of sexual assault by multiple women, though that didn't stop him from popping into a New York City bar recently to enjoy himself with friends. But some at the private East Village event made it known that his presence was unwelcome.

"Nobody's going to say anything!? I'm going to stand four feet from a f–ing rapist and nobody is going to say anything?" shouted Zoe Stuckless in a video that made the rounds on social media Thursday. Stuckless confronted Weinstein as he sat with a handful of people at a tucked away table in Downtime Bar, pointing at him as she spoke. The private event, Actors Hour, was described as a a speakeasy-style show dedicated to young artists. Weinstein is seen sitting in a booth wedged between two women, with a drink in hand. Later, Stuckless said publicly, "In some ways tonight was a horrible, painful reminder of the power a man like Weinstein holds even now," Stuckless wrote. "It was a reminder that even in this time of relative awareness it is hypnotically easy to be pulled into a culture of silence."

But Stuckless wasn't the only outraged bystander to call out Weinstein, who is facing multiple charges of rape and sexual misconduct for the alleged assaults.

Comedian Kelly Bachman put a literal spotlight on Weinstein at the venue while she was on stage, saying "Do we know what that is? Yeah it's Freddy Krueger in the room, if you will," Bachman said. "I didn't know we had to bring our own mace and rape whistles to Actors Hour."

Bachman's comments were met by several boos from male members of the audience. She later revealed that she was a survivor of sexual assault. Another woman, comedian Amber Rollo, took to Twitter to vent about her run-in with Weinstein, saying not only was he invited, but he was "supported."

"I was shocked to see him out, but not because I thought he would have shame, he is a sociopath and clearly has no shame. I'm shocked because he was invited to an event put on by and for artists," said Rollo.

Rollo also said on Twitter that she called him a "f–ng monster" and was then called a "c–t" by a man that was seated with him.

In response, Weinstein's rep released a statement calling the encounters "downright rude," telling NBC that Weinstein "was out with friends enjoying the music and trying to find some solace in his life that has been turned upside down. This scene was uncalled for, downright rude and an example of how due process today is being squashed by the public, trying to take it away in the courtroom too."

> "I was shocked to see him out, but not because I thought he would have shame, he is a sociopath and clearly has no shame."
> Amber Rollo

Another Weinstein spokesperson, Juda Engelmayer, told BuzzFeed News, "I would just point out that accusations are not convictions, and due process is still the foundation of each and every one of our civil rights in this country." Weinstein has denied all allegations of non-consensual sex.

Demand Soars At NYC Medical Clinic For Promising Back Pain Treatment

Can This Medical Technology Possibly Eliminate Or Greatly Reduce Even The Most Severe Back Pain... Almost Instantly?

The Advanced Medical Treatment Every Back & Neck Pain Sufferer Needs To Know - No Matter How Bad The Pain Is Or How Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic with two locations in New York City that has made a name for itself by treating the worst cases of back or neck pain.

Here is what every back and neck pain sufferer who has failed to respond to other treatments and does not want surgery should know about one of the best treatment options available today for severe back and neck pain including when, why and where you should consider this treatment to get maximum results.

If you suffer with back, neck or nerve pain, you have probably already tried many treatments... especially countless pain medications.

Experienced doctors understand that even though pain medications such as anti-inflammatory pain pills are part of the recommended early treatment plan for back pain... they are rarely the answer.

In most cases they have minimal, short term results (if any) and have a laundry list of potential side effects. Some being serious and even life threatening.

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there is very good option to help relieve the pain.

An option that a lot of back and neck pain sufferers may have never heard of before.

Before we get into these treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated the worst cases of back pain. Patients travel from all over to be treated at one of their clinics for all sorts of joint and muscle pain because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover is a REAL medical treatment. Not some miracle cure you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no one treatment that will help every case of back pain. And we cannot guarantee this treatment will work for you. But this treatment has already helped countless back and neck pain sufferers who had given up hope. I bet many just like you.

What is this treatment? It's called...

Radiofrequency Neurotomy

"Radiofrequncy Neurotomy" is often referred to as RF for short.

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your spine and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

Radiofrequency waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves.

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, the Radio Frequency Neurotomy is scheduled and performed for longer term relief.

What Results Can You Expect?

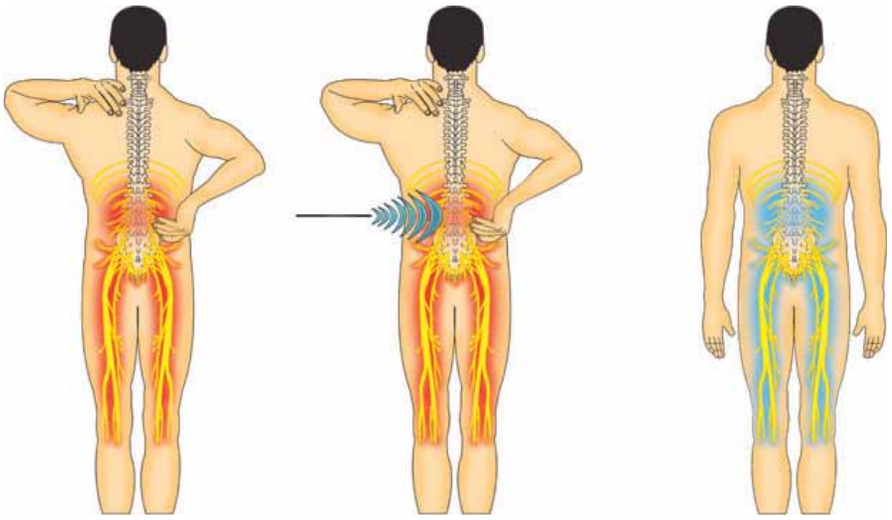
Like all real medical procedures... results vary for individual patients. No good and ethical doctor would guarantee any exact results for any procedure... that's just not how things work and it would be less than honest.

That's being said, it is not uncommon for patients to get complete, if not significant relief of their pain shortly after the treatment.

How Long Do The Results Last?

This procedure "blocks" the nerves pain signals... it does not destroy them. Therefore, the results are safe but not completely permanent. But, many patients get relief for 6 months… 12 months…. 18 months for some and some even longer. The great news is - another procedure can be safely preformed for more relief if necessary.

Advanced Treatment Uses Radio Frequencies To Relieve Serious Neck & Back Pain



Science rescues back & neck pain sufferers?: Radio Frequency Waves are used to block the nerve supply to the painful area and may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

While we cannot claim this is a complete "permanent cure" but... it can be a god-send for so many who were in constant pain.

Really... what would it be worth it to you could get out of pain for long enough so you could start enjoying your everyday life again?

Would it be worth it to be able to finally get a good nights sleep again?

How about being able to go for a simple walk or just do your basic daily chores without worrying about so much pain?

Is It Safe?

Yes. This procedure has been done countless times and continues to have an excellent safety record. It is minimally invasive and is not surgical.

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication and physical therapy do not offer good enough results.

RF has also been found effective AFTER back surgery when patient's still feel pain.

The pain after a failed back surgery can be debilitating for some and this procedure may be the only thing that helps give you relief.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain And The "X" Factor

Here is the "X" factor many do not consider that might be the difference between you getting the best possible treatment or not.

Many experts suggest choosing a medical clinic that offers all these treatments and has the proper, most advanced technology all under one roof without the need for a surgical center or hospital.

Major Savings In Time And Costs Of Care?

NYC Pain MD's method allows you to avoid expensive hospital or out patient surgi-center facility fees which often run 3 to 4 times the cost of the procedure itself. And you don't have to go through the huge stress and time consuming process of going all over the city to outside centers. All the NYC Pain MD treatments can be done in out in-office procedure suites saving you stress, time and dollars. NYC Pain MD believes this additional "X" factor is one of the reasons so many back pain sufferers travel from all over to be treated at one of their advanced medical clinics.

TRAVELING FOR THANKSGIVING

I love my family. But sometimes travel prices are just not worth it to go see them on a holiday like Thanksgiving. Between travel time — 5 hours for me — and the price tag, it adds up to seeing them for basically one day, one big meal and an empty bank account. Can't I just see them when the prices go down? I'll even cook turkey.

A week of protests and messages to the government

Friday, October 25 marked the end of the first week of mass protests in Chile. Triggered by the metro fare hike announcement, the unrest – thanks to banners and slogans – has raised awareness for a large number of issues left behind by local governments and politicians for years. On Thursday, Publimetro in Santiago converted its cover into a poster for the readers to be able to continue writing the history. MWN

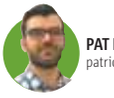
Chelsea Wolfe dials things down

The singer-songwriter walks us through her quiet and breathtaking new album, "Birth of Violence."



PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

Chelsea Wolfe is ready to occupy a much quieter space. For years, metal's favorite not-quite-folk artist has been touring and performing on bills that have leaned towards the heavier variety, silencing rooms with her hauntingly beautiful voice. On her sixth full-length album, "Birth of Violence," the singer-songwriter needed a break from the crushing volume of her previous album, "Hiss Spun," and was looking to create an album that puts an emphasis on her voice and writing as opposed to heavy arrangements. This time around, she recorded these stripped-down folk-leaning songs at her new home in Northern California with her longtime collaborator, Ben Chisholm. As a result, "Violence" is one of Wolfe's most affecting and direct albums to date. I spoke with Wolfe over the phone about the new album and reconnecting with her voice away from the thunderous feedback from the amps on stage.

The new record is kind of a departure for you, especially from how heavy the arrangements were on your last record, "Hiss Spun." Could you tell me a little bit about the recording and writing process this time around?

Yeah, it really stems from the contrast of making this really heavy rock record, touring a lot, after about eight years of constant touring as well. So I don't know something kind of just started to nag at me last year that I really needed to take a break and really take stock of my physical and mental health. And just daydreaming about being at home and I think the songs that became "Birth of Violence" sort of stems from that. I would just find a quiet place when I could. I started writing these songs, I felt very much a calm energy in the midst of the storm of 'tour.'

So it was almost like transitioning your home life onto the stage or onto a record in a way?
I think so. Just the experiences that I've had and a lot of it is about being on the road and being in constant motion. But yeah, I think it kind of comes back to finding a place to call home. I knew I didn't want to have to travel for this record, so it's a very DIY setup. And I did it with my bandmate in my home. And it was really special to take the time to settle into this home that I have lived in for two or three years ago but didn't really have the time to be there very much yet. So yeah, settling into it by making a record there was a really special experience.

With the sheer volume of "Hiss Spun," I can totally understand where you're coming. Did you have the urge to strip everything down to reconnect with the roots of songwriting and understanding how to use your own voice with a quieter record?
Yeah, because the bridge to each song was whatever that song needed. And I think a lot of it was bringing out the joy of singing in a way. And not having ... I don't know. I wrote a lot of these [songs] in a very acoustic way. "Hiss Spun" was very much the band getting together and jamming and rock and roll and that kind of energy. Which was super fun and that record was an exorcism for me and I got a lot of personal things out that I hadn't talked about before. So it was kind of the beginning of the feelings that I really needed to hone in on during "Birth of Violence." So it is very healing to play acoustic guitar and sing in a quiet room and experiment with your voice.

You've been working with your bandmate and musical collaborator Ben Chisholm for so long now. How has that relationship strengthened over time?
I feel like we're just lucky to find a collaborator that we can really just feel comfortable writing with and writing in front of. And from day one when we tried playing music together ten or so years ago, we just instantly connected that way. And even though some of our influences are different, just instinctually we have these ways of flowing and going back and forth with each other and making these songs and stuff. I basically brought him in to co-produce it because I know that he takes the scale to the end of the song and really gives it this place to live. I keep using this metaphor, but it just reminds me of my home. And that's like the song. The production that Ben [provides] ... it's like the mountain and the trees around it, it really gives it a place to live. I told him from day one that I wanted it to be like space-western, like have this old country culture, but also have this big spacey feel. Where it could be a little futuristic as well. Kind of bringing together the past and the future. And I just think that we really emphasized that.

The song "Little Grave" is such a powerful commentary on gun reform with the line, "You can't fight guns with guns, we'll all perish that way." Was the concept of this song something that came to you instantly or was it one that took time to properly voice?
No, something I thought that very much came to me. Obviously there have been so many school shootings in America and it's a problem here. Even though I haven't been affected directly, like I don't know anyone in the situations, it still affects me and makes me incredibly sad. And I just heard about one of them and then the president responded by saying, "We should arm teachers." That's where that line comes from though. You can't fight guns with guns. But sometimes I will write a song like that ... something like that came to me pretty quickly. It wasn't something that I have been working on for a long time. And I wasn't sure if I should have included it, but people that heard it also really connected to it and felt like it was something that more people would appreciate.

Make sure to catch Chelsea Wolfe at Brooklyn Steel this Friday, Nov. 1.

Astoria is named the coolest neighborhood in New York

Metro visits the place where Greek tradition and hipsters exist together.

SARAH YÁÑEZ-RICHARDS, MWN
letters@metro.us

ISTOCK

The area in Queens where older generations keep greeting each other from sidewalk to sidewalk and where the youngest ones have opened different restaurants & shops has been named the coolest neighborhood in New York and the eighth in the world by Time Out magazine.

While enjoying the sun at Socrates Sculpture Park – a place where gigantic sculptures are exhibited – Nalini, a yoga teacher and ex-dancer, told Metro that at the end of the seventies, none of her friends had imagined that Astoria would be baptized as the most interesting neighborhood.

"At that time there were drug addicts in the streets ... sometimes I was afraid to return home at night. But now the neighborhood has gentrified and that kind of thing is not seen so much," recalled the aromatherapist, who, in addition, noted that "back then" her dance partners used to say that she had moved to "China" because of the long time it took Nalini to get home from Manhattan.

During the forty years that she has lived in Astoria, Nalini has been able to observe how the community of artists has been decreasing due to the rise in rent prices, but an increase in diversity.

"Before you heard (in addition to English) a lot of Greek, Italian and German and the cuisine that dominated was the Mediterranean. Now you hear everything: Pakistani, Spanish ... on the way to the park I heard two ladies speaking Chinese. And that is one of the things that makes the neighborhood so cool," the New Yorker stated.

Although the Greek culture has blurred, eating gyro, souvlaki and/or dolma is still a tradition, as Greek-American Jimmy Manolas, who works in one of the five food trucks of his father, explained:

"The secret is to give meat its authentic flavor by marinating it in Greek wine."

The mix between the modern and the traditional is constantly present in this neighborhood. An example of this is the contrast between the bright and high Manhattan skyline with the two-story houses that can be seen at night. Or the fact that the shoe shop of Italian Frank that has been open for almost a century is at the side of a local Boost Mobile phone company.

For this shoemaker, the best thing about the neighborhood, which in the 1990s was chosen by Martin Scorsese to film the movie "Goodfellas," is that now you can find "everything" here, although this change has also meant that the businesses in the area has become "more commercial."

The fact that people from different generations live here was the key point for Texan Coleman Barton to decide to build his home in Astoria.

"You go to a neighborhood in Brooklyn and there are only young people, while in Astoria there is a mixture of all ages and races," the artist told Metro.

According to Barton, this age mix is because in Astoria – which has the touch of a residential neighborhood – people don't move as much as in the rest of New York.

"I recognize people on the street all the time. When I moved to this city I didn't think something like this would happen to me, I thought that because of it being so big I would never get to know my neighbors," he added.

In the six years that Barton has lived here, he has seen how "hipster stores" have been conquering more and more streets. So for him, the fact that Astoria is now officially labeled "cool" is not so funny.

His girlfriend, Clara Friedman, who is afraid that Astoria will lose its community spirit by becoming the trendy neighborhood, agreed:

"I don't want it to become like Dumbo (Brooklyn), I work near there and it reminds me of Disneyland, while my neighborhood seems like a place where people live."

Brooklyn is no longer cool?

In recent years the neighborhoods that used to crown the top ten lists with the most popular and innovative sites in New York used to be Bushwick, Dumbo, Greenpoint or Williamsburg, all located in Brooklyn, a district known for its avant-garde creators.

"Is Astoria the coolest neighborhood? For me, it was always a family area with Greek food ... but things change. In New York everything is changing very fast," portraitist Sharon Volpe, who was exhibiting art in a studio in Bushwick, a neighborhood she described as the home of artists and people with an open mind, commented.

A gyro made by Jimmy Manolas in Astoria.
SARAH YÁÑEZ-RICHARDS

Jennifer Manfredi's theory is that Williamsburg (where she works as a waitress) or Greenpoint (the neighborhood where she lives) has already reached its peak on the threshold of popularity.

"Maybe Astoria is next on the list," said the young woman, who explained that she thinks it's a very interesting neighborhood since she goes there every Easter Sunday to have lunch with a Greek friend.

The performance artist Glowjob, who acts at the House of Yes nightclub – a place that was named as the second-best plan to do in the world in 2018 by Time Out – thinks that Astoria is not ready to dethrone Bushwick, since the neighborhood where he works is where more art is developed and where people have more freedom of expression.

"The diversity, color, and joy you can observe here can not be seen in Astoria," said the artist, who considers his neighborhood – covered with murals – a family; not biological, but chosen, a "community that is quite nice too."

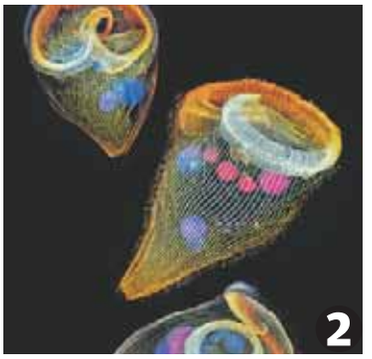
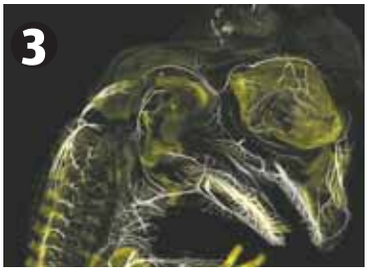
The best microscopic pics of 2019

These are the winning images of this year's Nikon Small World photography contest.





It's hard to notice the microscopic world that is around us. For the most part, we are just unable to see it and thus forget how marvellous it can be. Matt Stafford picks apart Giants, ruins Daniel Jones' 4 TD day

The Giants defense had no answer for the Lions on Sunday.

joseph.pantorno@metro.us

It continues to get worse for the New York Giants, who lost their fourth straight game on Sunday in a 31-26 decision against the Lions in Detroit.

New York's shoddy pass defense was exposed yet again, this time by Matthew Stafford, who threw for 342 yards and three touchdowns.

Fourteen of his 25 completions on the day went to either Danny Amendola (eight) or Kenny Golladay (six), the latter leading all receivers with 123 yards and two touchdowns.

For Giants rookie quarterback Daniel Jones, it was a much cleaner performance compared to recent weeks.

After throwing seven interceptions in his previous four games, Jones was clean while completing 28-of-41 passes for 322 and four touchdowns.

Saquon Barkley carried the offensive load yet again, accruing 143 total yards and a touchdown while Golden Tate had eight receptions for 85 yards.

Against a lackluster Lions defense, however, Jones' turnover issues continued almost immediately in Week 8.

Devon Kennard scored a TD against his former team on Sunday. GETTY IMAGES

After throwing an interception and fumbling three times against Arizona, Jones saw a backward screen pass intended for Barkley fall incomplete, becoming a live ball that was ruled a fumble.

While Barkley fell asleep on the play, former Giants linebacker Devon Kennard scooped up the loose ball and returned it 13 yards for the Detroit touchdown.

Less than five minutes later, the Lions went up 14 when Stafford hit Marvin Hall for a 49-yard touchdown pass late in the first quarter.

While New York's offense was a no-show in their first three drives — gaining a total of 25 yards — Jones eventually got into a groove. He completed 6-of-6 passes for 77 yards on a 10-play, 88-yard scoring drive that ended with the rookie quarterback hitting fellow rookie wide receiver Darius Slayton with a 22-yard score early in the second.

The two hooked up again with 4:39 left in the half to make it a one-point game in spectacular fashion. On a 3rd-&-7 from the Lions' 28-yard-line, Jones threw a jump ball that Slayton was able to haul in over the Detroit defender. Aldrick Rosas, however, would miss the extra point to keep the Lions ahead.

Jones went 12-of-15 in the first half for 138 yards.

A questionable running into the kicker penalty by David Mayo, who was on the ground when his arm made contact with Lions punter Sam Martin, extended a Lions drive late in the half that resulted in a field goal in the final minute to take a four-point advantage into the locker room.

They would make it a two-possession game on their first drive of the second, but Jones would answer quickly with his third touchdown of the day — a two-yard pass to tight end Evan Engram. But a failed two-point conversion to try and make up for Rosas' missed extra point meant the Giants' deficit was at five with 4:54 left in the third.

New York's defense couldn't find a way to slow Stafford down as he hit Golladay for a 41-yard touchdown on a flea-flicker early in the fourth to put things away.

Golladay would give the Giants life inside five minutes when he fumbled near midfield, but the visitors would fail to convert a fourth-down attempt for a second-straight time inside Lions territory.

A garbage-time touchdown from Jones to Barkley salvaged the scoreline, but the ensuing onside kick went out of bounds to secure another loss for the Giants.

Darnold throws another 3 INTs, Jets lose again

The New York Jets' nightmare from a 33-0 drubbing on Monday night against the New England Patriots carried over to Week 8 as they fell 29-15 to the Jacksonville Jaguars on Sunday afternoon.

Gardner Minshew continued his unlikely run as Jaguars starter as he completed 22-of-34 passes for 279 yards and three touchdowns to three different receivers.

The 29 points were a season-high for the Jaguars, whose defense managed to take care of Sam Darnold a week after his ghost sightings against the Patriots.

New York's second-year quarterback was considerably better compared to last week, but that doesn't mean much. While he completed 21-of-30 passes for two touchdowns, he threw three interceptions, including two in the fourth quarter to snuff out any hopes of a Jets comeback.

Sam Darnold's struggles continued against the Jaguars in Week 8. GETTY IMAGES

They played from behind for a majority of the afternoon as the Jaguars quickly jumped on the Jets defense.

Following a 66-yard Leonard Fournette rush on Jacksonville's opening drive, Minshew put the hosts ahead with a six-yard touchdown connection just 2:21 into the game.

The Jets would respond with a rare, methodical opening drive that saw Darnold complete all seven of his pass attempts for 88 yards. The 93-yard, 12-play drive was capped off by a 24-yard touchdown reception by tight end Ryan Griffin that put the Jets into the lead due to Jacksonville's missed extra-point attempt.

It was the Jets' first touchdown on an opening drive in their last 31 games.

Their lead didn't even last four minutes, however, after Minshew hooked up with Chris Conley on a 70-yard touchdown after squeaking out of the Jets' pass rush to give the Jaguars a 13-7 lead late in the first quarter.

They would add a pair of field goals toward the end of the half to carry a double-digit lead into the break.

Following their opening drive, the Jets offense ground to a halt for the rest of the half, losing nine total yards over their last four drives and ending any hopeful feeling that came with the promising offensive start.

After three punts began the second half, the Jaguars added another field goal, Josh Lambo's third of the day to extend Jacksonville's lead to 15 late in the third.

Darnold and the Jets offense finally woke up early in the fourth when they reeled off a nine-play, 75-yard drive that ended with Griffin hauling in his second touchdown of the game from three yards out. He caught the ensuing two-point conversion to make it a seven-point game with 13 minutes left.

Questionable playcalling and weak protection from the offensive line would do the Jets in as Darnold began pressing, resulting in Adam Gase's doom.

Darnold was picked off twice in the final 8:54 of the game, the first of the two picks leading to Minshew's third touchdown of the game — an eight-yard connection to DJ Chark.

That makes seven interceptions in Darnold's last two outings as the pressure on Gase to steer his young quarterback in the right direction continues to heap on his shoulders.

Perez, Bogar, Beltran, Murphy the favorites in Mets manager search

The Mets' uncertain managerial search looks as though it's down to three names.

JOE PANTORNO

In the days following the Philadelphia Phillies' hiring of Joe Girardi as their new manager, the New York Mets' search for a new skipper remains enigmatic.

It became clear that the WIlpons and general manager Brodie Van Wagenen are looking for a manager that is easily controllable — some will use the word "puppet" — as the organization's next bench boss.

Girardi is the exact opposite of that. It's why many are speculating the Mets passed on him despite his previous winning experience in New York with the Yankees.

The remaining candidates lack the kind of impression Girardi would have brought. In fact, most of the reported contenders lack any sort of MLB managing experience.

According to USA Today's Bob Nightengale on Friday, Eduardo Perez "has emerged as a clear frontrunner" for the job.

The 50-year-old Perez hasn't coached in the majors since 2013 after stints as a hitting coach with the Marlins and as a bench coach with the Astros.

He's worked primarily as a TV analyst, most notably for ESPN, but did lead Cangrejeros de Santurce to a Puerto Rican League title as their manager in 2014.

SNY's Andy Martino added that Washington Nationals first base coach Tim Bogar has also become a "strong contender" following a successful interview with the team.

Bogar spent four seasons with the Mets as a utility infielder from 1993-1996 and while he doesn't have MLB managing experience, he's spent plenty of time coaching.

He worked as a coaching assistant under Joe Maddon for the AL Champion Tampa Bay Rays in 2008 before working as a first base, third base, and bench coach with the Boston Red Sox between 2009-2012.

In 2014, he joined the Texas Rangers as a bench coach and became their interim manager for 22 games after Ron Washington was fired. He went 14-8.

The 52-year-old also has an extensive resume managing in the minors and was named manager of the year in three different leagues.

As he and Perez gain momentum, Carlos Beltran continues to loom as a strong favorite, as well.

The former Mets outfielder — currently an adviser with the Yankees — was immediately linked to the Mets job shortly after Mickey Callaway was dismissed.

He interviewed for the Yankees' job before the 2018 season where he lost out to Aaron Boone but has still been regarded as one of the hot, new managerial prospects given.

Numerous members of the Houston Astros' 2017 World Series-winning team credited Beltran — who was a veteran bench player at the time — with breaking down an opposing pitcher's trends and tips.

On Sunday evening, Ken Rosenthal of The Athletic reported that the Mets' mystery candidate is Milwaukee Brewers bench coach Pat Murphy.

The 60-year-old served as a bench coach of the San Diego Padres and was briefly their interim manager in 2015 before joining the Brewers.

He initially made his name coaching college baseball at Notre Dame and Arizona State.

Per reports, Murphy has had multiple interviews with the Mets.
